

Young EUFRAS – YPARD Mentoring and Training Program

Overview

Essential in supporting today's and tomorrow's sustainable food producers, young advisors play a pivotal role. However, rural advisory services grapple with recruiting, qualifying, and sustaining conducive working environments for these young specialists. To counter this, the EUFRAS and YPARD Young Advisors mentoring and training program creates an appealing platform for advisory services, fostering attraction for youthful talent. This empowers advisory roles, strengthens rural regions, and particularly benefits smaller and newer EU member states with limited development funds.

With the primary focus on the qualification of its 20 participants, the Young EUFRAS program not only imparts knowledge but also nurtures a network of peer-to-peer learning across Europe. Through collaboration and shared learning, YEUFRAS seeks to establish a lasting connection among participants.

Why YEUFRAS?

YEUFRAS - organization of young advisors who support each other in their personal formation and career development. YEUFRAS seeks to provide an answer to the question: What do you need as a junior advisor and project leader to grow into a professional project leader and advisor?
